be given to candidates with academic and clinical experience, and with demonstrated expertise with advanced technologies. The candidate should have prior experience in dental education and demonstrated ability to work productively in didactic and clinical educational environments. The preferred candidate will have a history of publications and involvement in research/scholarly activity. Productivity in UCSF Dental Center faculty practice is required. Candidates must have a US DDS or DMD degree (or foreign equivalent) and be eligible for dental licensure or special permit in the State of California. Salary and academic rank are commensurate with qualifications and experience.

The position reports to the Chair of the Department of Preventive and Restorative Dental Sciences and works collaboratively with faculty within the department and across the UCSF Dental Center. The faculty member who fills this position will support PRIDE values and demonstrate professional behaviors that promote a positive, productive, caring, and inclusive environment for all faculty, staff, residents, student, and patients. UCSF is an AA/EEO/Equal Access/ADA Employer.

The individual who fills this position will in general have the following responsibilities:

Teaching

Actively serve as an effective clinician-educator as measured by quantitative and qualitative assessments.

Contribute and support learning in pre-doctoral lab courses, and/or pre-/post-doctoral clinics and/or classroom instruction, and receiving above-average student, resident, and peer evaluations.

Contribute as assigned the pre-doctoral program, inclusive of its curriculum, clinical competencies, and the preparation of students for the licensing board exam.

Contribute to curriculum maintenance and innovation. Support didactic and clinical learning using best evidence.

Develop, administer, and provide informal/formal student performance assessments. Plan and provide student assessments. Participate in faculty peer review.

Contribute as assigned to advanced-education programs, directors, and residents in PRDS and throughout the UCSF Dental Center.

Establish and maintain effective and productive professional interactions for predoctoral and advanced program successes.

Research/Scholarship

Collaborate with faculty and serve as a mentor for students/residents regarding research and scholarly activities leading to grants, presentations, and publication.

Participate in department research/scholarly activity initiatives and preparation of manuscripts for publication in peer-reviewed journals.

Expand research collaborations intra- and inter-institutionally based on background and experience.

Patient Care

Resident, student, and patient care in the UCSF Dental Center faculty practice.
