Job Description

The University of California, San Francisco, School of Dentistry, Department of Preventive and Restorative Dental Sciences, is seeking a full or part-time faculty member in the Health Sciences Clinical Professor series (at the rank of Instructor, Assistant, Associate, or Full Professor) to support its teaching programs in clinical general dentistry. The appointment will be in the Department's Division of General Dentistry.

UCSF is committed to the teaching and practice of minimally invasive dentistry and caries management by risk assessment. Primary duties will include clinical and pre-clinical teaching, including lecture, seminar and continuing education activities covering all areas of general dentistry including diagnosis, treatment planning, prevention, restorative, endodontics, removable and fixed prosthodontics including implants, and nonsurgical periodontics.

The individuals selected must have U.S. DDS/DMD or an equivalent degree and must have current or be eligible for California dental licensure. At least three years of clinical dental experience is preferred. Previous predoctoral teaching experience is preferred.

Academic rank and salary level will be based on the successful applicant's experience. Interested applicants should submit a CV, cover letter, statement of teaching and the names of three references. The positions are open until filled. Due to the large number of applications, only potential candidates selected for an interview will receive return correspondence.

UC San Francisco seeks candidates whose experience, teaching, research, or community service has prepared them to contribute to our commitment to diversity and excellence.

The University of California is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability, age or protected veteran status.
