Full-time Orthodontics Faculty Position (Tenure/Non-Tenure Track)

UCLA School of Dentistry invites qualified applications for a full-time faculty in Orthodontics. This position will be at the level of Assistant or Associate Professor in the Health Sciences Clinical Series (non-tenure track - JPF08171) or Assistant or Associate Professor (tenure track- JPF08170).

The Section of Orthodontics is recognized for clinical and academic excellence, up-to-date clinical facilities, and offers an exceptional research environment. Numerous opportunities are available for clinical and / or research collaboration within the Dental School, and other UCLA schools.

UCLA seeks candidates whose experience, teaching, research, or community service has prepared them to contribute to our commitment to diversity, excellence, and service to our stakeholder communities.

Reporting to the Chair of the Section of Orthodontics, the selected individual will have primary responsibilities for didactic and clinical instruction of predoctoral students and graduate orthodontic residents. Additionally, the successful candidate will engage in research project supervision of students and contribute service to the school and profession.

The position calls for an individual with good interpersonal skills who can provide an evidence-based approach to education and clinical care. The successful candidate is expected to have experience and / or ability to develop positive, equitable and inclusive environment that accelerate the success of our increasingly diverse students, staff, and faculty we have and want to attract.

While scholarship is expected for both clinical and tenure track positions consistent with their professional goals and program needs, tenure track faculty will engage in productive extramurally funded research.

Applicants for either track must possess: (1) a DMD/DDS degree or equivalent, (2) a certificate of completion of a postgraduate training program in Orthodontics, and (3) a California dental license or is eligible to practice under special permit in dentistry.

In addition to the above criteria, candidates seeking a tenure track position should demonstrate a history of scholarly productivity including current extramurally funded research or tracking towards such funding, and preferably hold a PhD (or equivalent) in biomedical sciences, public health, social sciences or other relevant field.

Candidates who are Diplomate of the American Board of Orthodontics or be Board-eligible are strongly preferred. Engagement and familiarity with Craniofacial and Special Care Orthodontics (CFSCO) is desirable but not necessary. A track record of outstanding patient care, as well as demonstration and commitment to diversity is desirable.

Academic rank and salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience. An opportunity for part- time clinical practice will be available.

The posted UC salary scales set the minimum pay determined by rank and step at appointment. See Table #5, Scales 0 and 4. The salary range for this position is $115,100-158,800. This position includes membership in the health sciences compensation plan- APM-670, which provides for eligibility for additional compensation. The UCLA School of Dentistry offers an additional $5,000 in base salary compensation on top of the published salary scales for all clinical faculty.

Applicants should submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, teaching statement, Equity, Diversity, and

The University of California is committed to creating and maintaining a community dedicated to the advancement, application, and transmission of knowledge and creative endeavors through academic excellence, where all individuals who participate in University programs and activities can work and learn together in a safe and secure environment, free of violence, harassment, bullying and other demeaning behavior, discrimination, exploitation, or intimidation. With this commitment as well as a commitment to addressing all forms of academic misconduct, UCLA conducts targeted employment reference checks for finalists to whom departments or other hiring units would like to extend formal offers of appointment into Academic Senate faculty positions. The targeted employment reference checks involve contacting the finalists' current and prior places of employment to ask whether there have been substantiated findings of misconduct that would violate the University's Faculty Code of Conduct. To implement this process, UCLA requires all applicants for Academic Senate faculty positions to complete, sign, and upload the form entitled "Authorization to Release Information" into RECRUIT as part of their application. If the applicant does not include the signed authorization to release information with the application materials, the application will be considered incomplete. As with any incomplete application, the application will not receive further consideration. Although all applicants for faculty recruitments must complete the entire application, only finalists (i.e., those to whom the department or other hiring unit would like to extend a formal offer) considered for Academic Senate faculty positions will be subject to targeted employment reference checks.

As a condition of employment, you will be required to comply with the University of California Policy on Vaccination Programs – With Updated Interim Amendments.
